Academic programme

- Two small-group special subject seminars
- Three plenary lectures per day
- Evening talks
- c.70 hours of tuition over 4 weeks
- Reading and preparation

Special subject seminars

You choose two seminar subjects, allocated in order of preference. You will receive a personal timetable for your seminars. There is a total of 6 hours' tuition in each seminar subject. Specialist seminar topics offered are:

- Civil procedure Professor Neil Andrews
- Company law Dr Felix Steffek
- Criminal law Dr Matthew Dyson
- Contract law Dr Roderick Munday
- Law of torts Dr Catherine Seville
- Law of trusts John Hopkins
- Private international law
Professor Richard Fentiman
- Constitutional and administrative law
Professor Trevor Allan

"Drawing on over 60 years of experience, the programme offers participants an unrivalled introduction to the English common law."

Dr Roderick Munday,
Programme Director, English Legal Methods Summer Programme

Plenary lectures

Three plenary lectures, given by members of the Faculty of Law and other invited experts, are delivered every weekday, and aim to include the following topics:

- The development and structure of English law
- The sources of English law
- The courts and legal profession
- Private law (property, obligations, trusts etc)
- Public law (constitutional and administrative law)
- Civil and criminal procedure

Reading and resources

A resource list will be available at the start of the programme; no pre-reading is required, but reading and preparation forms an integral part of the programme. Students will also have access rights to the Squire Law Library, which maintains one of the largest legal collections in the UK. You will have access to computing and printing facilities, and to our Virtual Learning Environment (VLE) which gives access to course information and allows interaction with fellow participants before, during and after the programme.

- 14.00–17.30: One or two 1-hour seminars / private study time / free time
- 18.30–19.30: Dinner in College (residents only)
- 20.00–21.00: Optional evening talks of general interest / concert or social event / free time

Attendance

A certificate of attendance will be given to those who attend all lectures and seminars. 100% attendance is required, except in exceptional circumstances.

Study at one of the world's leading universities

The University of Cambridge is one of the oldest universities in the world, with over 800 years of history, and is renowned for its academic achievement. The University's International Summer Programmes welcome adults from more than 50 countries each year.

The English Legal Methods Summer Programme has run since 1948, in collaboration with the Faculty of Law, and presents central aspects of English Law. English Legal Methods concentrates on the general structure of the law and legal methods, although detailed study of substantive law is also covered.

Taught by leading Cambridge scholars, this residential programme offers you the rare opportunity to experience Cambridge life first-hand; to live in one of the Colleges, enjoy a variety of social events, and to spend your summer as a student in one of the most famous university cities in the world.

Stay in a Cambridge College

To add to the academic experience you can stay and dine in Selwyn College, close to the Faculty of Law and within easy walking distance of the vibrant city centre. This gives you the opportunity to meet fellow students studying other subjects. If you prefer, there are also non-residential places available.

Who can apply?

This programme is designed for lawyers and law students, both graduate and undergraduate, who have little or no prior knowledge of the English legal system. Applicants from countries whose legal systems are based on English common law will not normally be accepted. Law students must have completed a minimum of one year of their legal studies at undergraduate level. Participants must also meet our English language requirements.

How do I apply?

You can download an application form from our website, apply online, or request a brochure. All applicants should submit a 200-300 word piece explaining what they hope to gain from the programme.
